Scott Rankin is a graduate of Shippensburg University (Finance). His career began with ACandS, an international mechanical insulation and abatement contractor in 1985 as an Estimator Trainee in Philadelphia. In 1987 he was promoted to Sales Representative and Contract Manager for the Philadelphia operation in 1992. A year later, he accepted a promotion to Manager of Field Support in the corporate office in Lancaster, PA. While there, Scott completed his graduate studies at St. Joseph's University and earned an MBA. Scott returned to field operations in 1996 and was soon asked to assume leadership responsibility for Pyro-Stop, LLC in 1998. As president of Pyro-Stop, Scott has grown the business by broadening its customer base, range of contract services and geographic coverage. He developed the company's QA/QC program for FMG 4991 Approval and is a qualified DRI for both FM and UL. Throughout his career, Scott gained extensive experience in both the institutional, commercial and industrial markets and has managed projects ranging from 60 story hotels to sprawling casinos to fossil fuel and nuclear power station outages.

Scott & Pyro-Stop are Charter Members of the FCIA. Scott has served as Director for 11 years holding the offices of Secretary, Vice President and President. In addition to these three positions, Scott has served as Program Committee chairman for over ten years, is active on the Editorial Committee of Life Safety Digest Magazine, is a member of the Accreditation Committee and is Finance Committee chairman. He continues to offer financial and administrative policy & procedure recommendations for the Board's consideration. Scott regularly attends IFC (International Firestop Council) meetings as a representative of his company and acting as FCIA liaison.

At home, Scott is partnered with Diane, his wife of 26 years. Diane is a school teacher for the Souderton Area School District. They have a son and daughter. Son Taylor graduated from the University of Delaware in 2012. Daughter Kaitlyn graduated from Kutztown University in 2014. Scott spends his free time coaching a high school ice hockey team. Camping and travel are summertime activities while skiing is a wintertime favorite.
